Keynote Address From The Founder

Despite the rising demand for the services of writers by individuals and organisations, writing has yet to be recognised as a viable, mainstream profession in Africa. We have not fully explored the potential Of the craft in creating a sustainable writing industry. Many young writers only tentatively explore their talent, unsure how to enhance their skill or maximise it to build an enviable career and earn a decent living.

This is the foundation on which Sabi Writers is built — to create opportunities for the growth of young writers in Africa. It is this foundation that has birthed the vision for Sabi Writers School. We are setting a precedence for the emergence of an established writing industry by unravelling the writing genius in our students. Through our instructor-led training and courses, we develop the competencies of young African writers to fit the demands of the local and global job market.

At Sabi Writers School, you get the opportunity to leverage our hands-on teachings and support structure to fast-track your writing career. Our courses are tailored to your needs, our teaching methodology is highly interactive, and our faculty members are grounded in their niches. All of these we have put together to help you scale your writing from mere talent to professionalism.

We are on a mission to raise talented, professional, and innovative writers in Africa.

Therefore, it is my utmost delight to welcome you to the school. On behalf of the Management and Faculty Members of Sabi Writers School, I congratulate you for taking the bold step to be a part of this transformative journey. We wish you the best learning experience.

Warm regards

Chinonso Ogbogu
